The screenshot shows a form titled "Add gateway". It has two main sections: "Server name" and "User account". The "Server name" section contains a blue text input field with a red underline and a close button (X) on the right. The "User account" section contains a dropdown menu with the text "Use desktop user account" and a downward arrow. A red rectangular box highlights the "User account" dropdown menu.

「Add user account」

The screenshot shows the same "Add gateway" form. The "User account" dropdown menu is open, showing two options: "Use desktop user account" with a selected radio button (a red circle with a dot) and "Add user account" with an unselected radio button (an empty circle). A red rectangular box highlights the "Add user account" option.
